WARNING.

We wish to caution all users of Simmons Liver Regulator on a subject of the deepest interest and importance to their health—perhaps their lives. The sole proprietors and makers of Simmons Liver Regulator learn that customers are often deceived by buying and taking some medicine of a similar appearance or taste, believing it to be Simmons Liver Regulator. We warn you that unless the word Regulator is on the package or bottle, that it is not Simmons Liver Regulator. No one else makes, or ever has made Simmons Liver Regulator, or anything called Simmons Liver Regulator, but J. H. Zeilin & Co., and no medicine made by anyone else is the same. We alone can put it up, and we cannot be responsible, if other medicines represented as the same do not help you as you are led to expect they will. Bear this fact well in mind, if you have been in the habit of using a medicine which you supposed to be Simmons Liver Regulator, because the name was somewhat like it, and the package did not have the word Regulator on it, you have been imposed upon and have not been taking Simmons Liver Regulator at all. The Regulator has been favorably known for many years, and all who use it know how necessary it is for Fever and Ague, Bilious Fever, Constipation, Headache, Dyspepsia, and all disorders arising from a Diseased Liver.

We ask you to look for yourselves, and see that Simmons Liver Regulator, which you can readily distinguish by the Red Z on wrapper, and by our name, is the only medicine called Simmons Liver Regulator.

THE MODERN LEVELER.

For several centuries there has been a jealous feeling on the part of those who could not and those who could and those who could not ride in carriages. Class distinctions have been marked by the carriage in bygone days. "He keeps a carriage" has often been one of the arraignments of the wealthy by those who must go afoot. Keeping a carriage in the city has always been the most conspicuous outward notification of wealth and case.

In the country, years ago, the chaise or the covered buggy was the luxury of the few who had moderate wealth. As the country has grown in wealth the road wagon and the carriage have become more common, particularjy since skill and machinery have made them cheaper. Still, it is yet a fact that a class of poorer people are more envious of the well-to-do who ride in carriages for so doing than for any other cause. This is because they pass them in the highway, often stirring up the dust which chokes the pedestrian. The act has something of defiance in it for the weary traveler.

In these latter days there has come a great demand for the Bicycle. At first only one quite well off could own one, but now the person who earns most any sort of wages rides a wheel if he or she wishes. Indeed, the wheelrider has much the best of it, since the employe is easily able, on a wheel, to pass the employer, who may be going to the same place of business in the morning or returning at night. The man of the carriage may be compelled to waite for his vehicle, but the coachman of the wheel is never tardy. So it will come, if it has not already come, that those who ride in carriages are no longer envied.

NOT AFRAID.

The last of ex-President Cleveland's sentry boxes has been removed from the White House grounds, and the last extra policeman relegated to his proper duty of patroling the streets of Washington City. President William McKinley has no use for guards or detectives or a portucullis. He does not sneak out of his official residence by a back stair. He goes in and out before the people as one of them. He neither distrusts nor nor fears his fellow citizens. It may be true that the President's life is in constant danger at the hands of irresponsible Booths and Guiteaus, but he has seen danger often before, having fought in person, and not by substitute, no less than seventeen pitched battles, during which he was never out of danger. And that is the kind of President the people like to have.

Wheat, corn, cotton and hogs are all worth considerably more than they were, and prices are still climbing. It is this cheerful condition of affairs that enables the American farmer to sit on the top rail of the fence at the Popocratic yawp who comes along talking calamity.

The magnificent crops in Nebraska must make Mr. Bryan feel that a Boy Orator is without honor in his own country. In spite of all his calamity howling, the country persists in being prosperous.

What has become of the Bryan argument "as silver goes down, down goes wheat?" We don't hear it mentioned any more. But farmers note this fact, and they wont shout themselves hoarse over the sentiment. Wheat is going the way they want it to go.

Col. Watterson's democratic party and Col. Blackburn's democratic party are having a lively time of it. The fight so far as is largely vocal, but it is rapidly nearing the carving stage.

There is no call to defend the "Protective Tariff." It is here and able to protect itself. Let the biggest Free Trade guns limber up and fire their heaviest charges. The noise at least may comfort the mourners.

Representative "Jerry" Simpson, of Kansas, is angry because Speaker Reed gave him a place on the Committee on Agriculture. If he doesn't know anything about agriculture what does he know?

It is estimated that this year's crops in Kansas will net the farmers $100,000,000. Moreover, thanks to the popular defeat of the "Kansas idea," this vast sum is to be paid in dollars worth 100 cents each.

Chairman Jones, of the Popocratic National Committe, says the country will remember the authors of the new Tariff bill. It certainly will if it has any gratitude.

Heretofore we have had tariff talk. Now the tariff talks.

HAVE BEEN TAUGHT,

The Free Traders assert that the Protective spirit is founded on selfishness and ignorance. Weere upon the globe is there a more grasping country than Free Trade England? As to ignorance underlying the principles of Protection, the people of the country have had the lesson taught them that the placing of duties upon imports of such agricultural products as can here be manufactured, sufficient to offset the low wages paid abroad, is a benefit to our working classes and permits the profitable employment to American capital, and that duties insufficient to meet foreign competition paralyze every domestic interest.

AN OPINION FROM SOLICITOR LEARY.

The question having been raised as to the intent and meaning of sections 52 and 53 of the Revenue Act 1897, we requested an opinion from Solicitor Leary. Here it is:

Edenton, N. C., August 6th, '97.

Editor CAROLINIAN:

The Attorney General, in a letter dated July 10th, 1897, to Hon. J. E. Bryan, of Moncure, N. C., used the following words in giving an opinion upon this subject, to wit: "It is my opinion that it would not be the duty of the Sheriff to make report to the Court as provided for in the law until after the day for levying and selling had passed." In this opinion I concur, certainly to the extent that in no event would it become the duty of the Sheriff to make a report before the 18th day of November next, and this being true, the other conclusion of the Attorney General would seem to follow.

No levying or selling can take place under the provisions of our laws before the 18th day of November of each year, and, therefore, it seems to me, the position above stated would not require any argument, a statement of the proposition being one in keeping with reason and alone sufficient. The law was intended for those who wilfully defy and disown their duty to the State by not performing a duty which rests alike upon all of the citizens and in common justice should be borne alike by them.

A proper enforcement of the law can do no harm, but will be of great benefit to the State in increased revenues.

Respectfully,
WM. J. LEARY JR,
Solicitor 1st Judicial District.

P. S. I have not referred to the constitutional question involved, but I believe the Attorney General has given it as his opinion that the Act will stand the test of the Courts.

The Republican party promised a return of Confidence and Stability, and the business world is well satisfied with the samples promptly furnished.

England and the United States have decided to get together on the Seal question. It is simply a triumph of good, old-fashioned common sense.

Alaska cost about $7,000,000. The Yukon River, which is navigable for 1500 miles, is alone worth it as an asset.

If a protective tariff is a tax, it is the only one yet discovered that fills the pockets of the American people.

Wheat and Silver parted company when the Democracy began flirting with the latter.

Prosperity comes in just as the Democratic tariff bill goes out,

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Aug. 6, 1897.

No new orders have been given to Minister Sewall, and the story that came from Hawaii this week about his having been instructed to establish a protectorate over the islands as soon as he learned of the failure of the Senate to act upon the annexation treaty at the extra session of Congress was largely imaginary. When Minister Sewall left Washington he carried definite instructions to raise the stars and stripes over Hawaii the minute that any attempt was made by Japanese, or others, to interfere in any manner with the existing government of Hawaii. Those instructions have not been supplemented in any way and are not likely to be. If any other country interferes with Hawaii, Minister Sewall will hoist old glory and the U. S. war vessels in the harbor of Honolulu will see that the flag is kept afloat. That is all there is of it.

Ex-Senator Sanders, of Montana, who is now visiting Washington, was asked what effect, if any, he thought the Alaska gold discoveries would have upon the financial question in this country. He replied: "I hardly think that the discovery of large quantities of gold in Alaska will tend to bridge the gap that separates gold and silver. It matters not how much gold is taken out of the Klondyke field, silver will never regain its old time position. As a standard it is doomed, but it will always serve an excellent use as a subsidiary currency. But after all, it may be doubted whether even if the Klondyke mines prove as productive as the most sanguine miners claim, the general condition of the great mass of our people will thereby be bettered. It may be doubted whether the California boom of '49 produced any prosperity of National extent. Prosperity is not the result of such episodes. Money is abundant enough now; the trouble is that it lies stacked up in vaults and will not come out of its hiding places."

Mr. T. V. Powderly, who was this week sworn in as Commissioner General of Immigration, has only to display the same common sense in performing his duties that he did in answering questions as to his policy to make him a model official. He fully recognizes that his duty is to enforce laws and not to make them, as is shown by his words. "Of course, I have personal views on immigration, but I shall follow entirely the laws governing the subject."

In view of the frequency that free traders say that a trip to Europe knocks protection ideas out of intelligent Americans, the following statement made in Washington by Mr. W. A. Nygh. will be read with interest: "Although I was born in Holland and am now residing in London, yet a residence of twenty years in California made me a pretty throough American. I am proud to call myself an American, for I look upon the people of the United States as the foremost in the world. I saw a hugh steamship discharge her cargo at Southampton the other day, and as I watched the wheat and corn and machinery of every sort, not to speak of bicycles without end, that were landed, the thought came to my mind that while America can supply all her needs without going beyond her own shores, the nations of Europe cannot do so; they must send to the States for many of the necessities and luxuries of life. This is why I am so thoroughly pleased the Dingley tariff. The policy of high protective duties is the only correct one for this country. I would not care if the tariff was prohibitory as to imports. The other countries would squirm, but they are powerless to do anything to weaken our position. They must trade from us whether we buy from them or not. I predict that the Dingley law will restore prosperity to this country and that hereafter there will be no thought of changing changing to a tariff for revenue If the Americans want to keep in the lead of other nations the protective policy is the certain way."

Senator Cullom has gone to Europe. Before starting he expressed himself in a jubilant tone on the outlook, which he considers very bright. He said: "It is too bad for the calamity howlers that things haven't all gone wrong. The party has lived up to its pledges, and the settlement of the tariff has given a tone to business and a feelin6 of certainty to business men. Confidence is restored and we are now on the up grade."

A True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discery for consumption, coughs and colds. Experimented with many otners, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King't New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr, King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisty. Trial bottles free at Alex. Wadsworth's drug store.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter nauseating tonics. Price, 50 cents.

SEEK FREE DOCTORS.

Some Queer Experiences In the Public Dispensaries of New York.

The least hope of any change in this charity to all policy is with those dispensaries that are bountifully endowed. The leading institution of this class in New York city is located on the west side, and, in view of its defiant abuse of all kinds of medical charity, has earned for itself the unenviable sobriquet of the "diamond dispensary." It has such a high reputation for the number and pecuniary ability of its patients that it would appear to be rather a credit than a disgrace to receive its outrageously misdirected charity. Such at least is the inevitable conclusion that may be based upon the large average of well to do people who claim daily the benefits of free medical treatment so lavishly and indiscriminately furnished to all who apply. Many of these visitors are from out of town districts and will pay several dollars for car fare, will ask for a written diagnosis of their disease and an extra prescription, and will then complain if they are kept waiting beyond the time for their return train. The examining doctor is content to ride to the dispensary in a horse car; the patient comes and returns in a cab. It is no longer a joke to refer to the display of diamonds or the number of women clad in sealskins in the patients' waiting room, nor does it appear to be unlikely that, in the near future, conveniences will not be required for checking bicycles and distributing carriage numbers in the order of the different arrivals. In this connection, the following description by an eyewitness in the waiting room of this dispensary may be interesting:

"The reception room held about 200 at a time. Nobody was turned away. Fully 50 per cent of the applicants were well dressed, and 10 per cent of them were finely dressed. Three women wore fur coats that had not been handed down from somebody else. There was an attractive display of fine millinery, and the men, more than half of them, bore no evidences of poverty. But all obtained free treatment supposed to be given to paupers—'poor persons.'"

Such instances as the following carry with them their own moral:

"During the examination of a dispensary patient a roll of bills dropped from her pocket. The doctor picked it up and remarked, 'Madam, this is a free dispensary, and as you are able to pay a fee for medical advice I must decline to treat you here.' 'Well,' replied the woman, 'that money is for something else. You are paid by the city and must prescribe for me.' On being assured that the doctor received no salary from any source, the patient became indignant and protested that she was entitled to attention equally with the 'lady' who had preceded her and from whom she had rented a house the week before."—Dr. George F. Shrady in Forum.

Thick Headed.

"Yes," said Mr. Snicksnackle, "I do not like my name at all. They say that either the legislature or the district court will change it for one. Which would you apply to if you were in my predicament?"

"Well," said she thoughtfully, "a minister would do for me."

And three hours later it struck him that perhaps there was a mild hint in what she had said.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Appreciation.

"I hope you appreciate the fact, sir, that in marrying my daughter you marry a large hearted, generous girl."

"I do, sir (with emotion), and I hope she inherits those qualities from her father."—Harlem Life.

In a home for sandwich men in London there are said to be several university graduates and medical men and a Scotchman who ran through £50,000 in three years.

ONE OF TWO WAYS.

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble of some sort. The error is easily made and may as easily be avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty-four hours, a sediment or settling indicates kidney trouble. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet; both sent free by mail. Mention this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

BALTIMORE, MD.

NORTH CAROLINA,
Pasquotank County.

Charles Levis and wife, Anna A., Alfred T. Conrow, the two latter being the heirs at law distributees of Thornton Conrow deceased, and S. Morris Waln administrator of Thornton Conrow, plaintiffs.

vs.

The heirs at law and next of kin of Frederick Paxson, deceased late of Pennsylvania, whose names are unknown, Mrs. Louisa Bush, widow of D. G. Bush, deceased, Geo. T. Bush, one of the heirs at law and distributee of said D. G. Bush and all other heirs at law, if there be any, of said D. G. Bush, defendants.

THIS is a special proceeding before the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pasquotank County to have a trustee appointed in the place of Fredrick Paxson, who was trustee in a certain deed of trust executed by the Land and Lumber Company, wherein that certain tract of land in Pasquotank county, containing 2700 acres, more or less, and known as the Parkville or Poorhouse tract, was conveyed in trust to secure a debt of Thirty-five Thousand Dollars, which said debt was assigned to D. G. Bush and Thornton Conrow, and which has not been paid. The defendants will take notice that they appear before the Clerk of the Superior Court at Elizabeth City on Thursday, August 26th, 1897, and answer the complaint now filed in the office of said clerk, or the relief prayed for will be granted. FOR SALE

48 lots of land eligibly situated on the West side of Road street, in Elizabeth City, about 400 yards from the passenger depot of the N. & S. R. R. and 300 yards from the Collegiate Institute.

On Monday Sept. 26th, between the hours of 12 m. and 3 p. m., I shall offer at public sale to the highest bidder, at the Court House door in Elizabeth City, (if not sold at private sale before) 48 lots of land, numbered on the plat 1 to 57, being all the lots on said plat except Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 13 and 14, which have been sold: Said lots as a whole bounded on the N. by Cypress street, E. by Road street, by lot of W. E. Dunstan, and W. by lands of Mrs G. M. Scott and M. N. Sawyer.

The lots are well situated, being well drained and in an excelent neighborhood that is being built up with first-class residences.

This sale is a forced one, there being liens on the property that must be closed. I am authorized to sell the property at private sale, and those who may desire to invest would do well to examine it and to call at my office and examine a map of the same.

A liberal discount will be made from the prices now asked for the lots to one who will purchase them in bulk, and reasonable time allowed on deferred payments. The proceeds of sales will be applied to the payment of existing leins until they shall be fully paid up and released and perfect title assured.

For further information inquiry may be made of me or of any responsible citizen of the town personally or by letter. A full in vestigation of the titles of the property and existing leins upon it and of its present and prospective value is invited.

PURELY VEGETABLE

.....CASCARETS are purely vegetable and contain no mercurial or other mineral poison. They are made of the latest remedies discovered and are a scientific combination never before put together in any form.

ANTISEPTIC LAXATIVE

.....CASCARETS are antiseptic. That means they stop undigested food from souring in the stomach, prevent fermentation in the bowels and kill disease germs of any kind that breed and feed in the system.

LIVER STIMULANT

.....CASCARETS tone the stomach and bowels and stimulate the lazy liver, making it work. They strengthen the bowels and put them into vigorous healthy condition, making their action easy and natural.

.....CASCARETS increase the flow of milk in nursing mothers. A tablet eaten by the mother makes her milk more nutritive and has a mild but decided effect on the baby. Cascarets are the safe laxative for the infant.

BOON FOR MOTHERS

.....CASCARETS are liked by the children. They taste good and do good. Stop wind-colic and cramps, and kill and drive off worms, and all kinds of parasites that live in the bowels of the growing child.

PLEASE THE CHILDREN

.....CASCARETS, taken patiently, persistently, are guaranteed to cure any case of constipation, no matter how old and obstinate, or purchase money will be cheerfully refunded by your own druggist.

CURE GUARANTEED

.....CASCARETS are sold by druggists for 10c, 25c, 50c a box, according to size. A 10c box will prove their merit and put you on the right road to perfect and permanent health. Don't risk delay.

HEALTH FOR 10 CENTS

☞Don't judge CASCARETS by other medicines you have tried. They are new, unlike anything else that's sold, and infinitely superior. Try a 10c box to-day, if not pleased get your money back! Larger boxes, 25c or 50c. Sample and booklet mailed free. Address

To the Public.

Gold & Hooper HAVE DISSOLVED COPARTNERSHIP and hereafter the business will be conducted by J. A. Hooper & Co.

In making this announcement to the public we wish to say that it is not our aim to "get all we can" from our customers, but it is our aim to try and make permanent customers by giving every buyer the possible for the least money and polite and courteous attention to all.

Since buying Mr. Gold's interest in the business, we have added New Goods to our stock of Dry Goods, Ladies' Dress Goods, Hats, Shoes, Men's Youths' and Boy's Clothing, Gent's Furnishing Goods and Notions. Knowing that all intelligent buyers will spend their money where they can get the greatest value for it, we have reduced our prices on every article in the house to as low a price as it can be sold consistent with the hard times and a safe business, and cordially invite the public to see our goods and learn our prices. Remember that a dollar is only a dollar, but how much it will buy depends on where you do your trading. So try J. A. HOOPER & CO., Successors to Gold & Hooper, Water Street, Elizabeth City, N. C.

The North Carolinian.

Wednesday, August 11, 1897.

☞Coming!

☞Splendid crops.

☞With better prices, farmers will be "all right."

☞Letters of inquiry about Elizabeth City continue to be received.

☞Are you a subscriber to the CAROLINIAN? If not, why not? Only $1 a year.

☞The largest excursion of the season left for Nags Head yesterday to witness the military display.

☞We see it stated that J. F. Jones has been appointed postmaster at Rosedale. Upon whose recommendation was this done?

☞A sufferer says the pain and irritation are no whit relieved when we are told that it is only the lady mosquito that bites.

☞Those who are fond of rod and gun, and most folks are, will nowhere find more enjoyable sport than at Nags Head. Fish and game are abundant.

☞A gentleman who has just traveled over the county reports that the crops are extraordinarily fine. Said he: "I never saw them looking better at this season."

☞The Clerk of the County Commissioners reports that the assessed value of property in Elizabeth City is $1,440,122, a gain of $81,092 over 1896.

☞Governor Russell has appointed Mr. John Brady, of Gates, as delegate from this District to the Farmers' National Congress which meets on the 31st inst.

☞At the election yesterday the special school tax was badly defeated. We favored it, advocated it and voted for it; but after the action of the County Board of Education we were satisfied that it would not be carried.

☞The CAROLINIAN is informed that the beautiful Christian Church at Scuppernong will be dedicated tomorrow. Rev. B. H. Melton, State Evangelist, will preach the sermon. He will return to Elizabeth City immediately after the dedication.

☞Nag's Head just now has quite a military appearance. The Naval Reserves, Capt. W. J. Griffin, of Elizabeth City, are encamped on the Sound side; and the Perquimans Guards, Capt. T. G. Skinner, have "pitched their tents" on the Beach.

☞A good many people in Elizabeth City remember a young man named E. M. Delancy, who spent a short while here some time ago. He forged a check on the Blades Lumber Company, has been arrested and is now in Norfolk jail, charged with other forgeries.

☞The CAROLINIAN attacks no man's personal or private character. It is only acts that affect the general public that it feels in duty bound to criticise. There is a wide distinction, but some people do not appear to see it.

☞James C. Brooks having resigned, the Collector of Customs of this District has appointed Palemon John to act as his Deputy at this port. It has been decided that Deputy Collectors are not officers in the ordinary sense of the term, but are merely deputed to represent the Collector.

☞The revival meeting of the Disciples that has been in progress at the Court House for a couple of weeks closed on Sunday nigth. We learn that it has been quite successful; that 42 new members have been added to the Church, and that a branch of the organization has been established here. It is proposed to build a place for public worship.

☞The CAROLINIAN is glad to learn that the managers of the Albemarle Park Association are effecting arrangements for holding a Fair in October. It ought to be a success, and it can be made to be. Fairs are educators, and in more senses than one, and when and where properly supported and sustained incalculably benefit the entire community.

☞We have been to Nags Head, sniffing the invigorating sea breeze, gazing at the rolling billows and surging breakers of grand Old Ocean, of which we never tire, and enjoying ourself generally. There is no place on our coast where the bathing is safer and finer. The Hotel is well kept, everything is neat and clean, and the table is supplied with everything any one can wish. We advise all who need recreation and want a "good time" to go to Nags Head.

☞One advantage in being rich is not having to appear so.

☞A man to rule a woman must be strong enough not to use his streng h.

☞Zoeller's Crayon Work in Frame for $2.90, is the Town talk.

☞"The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother," said Napoleon.

☞When you are in the City have your PICTURE taken at Zoeller's on Water Street.

☞Faithful performance of duty usually beats a strike for a better job and a higher salary.

☞Zoeller's $5.00 Pastel Work in Frames, for $3.90, can't be beat.

☞Bear in mind that death is the only thing that will destroy the appetite of the weed.

☞That Kid Glove Moses Weisel is celling for 79c is a corker.

☞The animal that is scrubbily kept will be a scrub; no breeding can prevent it.

☞You will do well to buy a Carpet of Fowler & Co, at their present prices for they will be higher.

☞That country is the greatest and best where soil and mind are most cultivated.

☞A large clothing firm said they lost a barrel of money closing out their business. Their loss will be your gain if you buy a suit of these clothes. Fowler & Co. Got 'em.

☞Every farmer should remember that soil needs a varied diet as well as animals; rotation crops provides for it.

☞You will want our Clothing if you see the quality and how little they cost. Genuine bargains at Fowler & Co.'s.

☞There is no surer way to learn how time flies than to have to take a nauseous dose of medicine every hour.

If you want a Suit of Clothes made to order, go to Fowler & Co, Large assortment to select from and a fit guaranteed.

☞When a man gets lost himself, he is very apt to want to tell everybody he meets how to get out of the woods.

☞The man who has no happiness in life is one who doesn't wear Moses Weisel's perfect fitting shirts.

☞Did you ever think that the little acts of kindness and thoughtfulness day by day are really greater than one immense act of goodness once a year.

☞Its a peach! that $1.25 Overcoats for boys at Moses Weisel's, sizes from 5 to 13 years, with capes.

☞We should have a distinct purpose in living and we cannot put that purpose too high. A man only becomes what he makes himself, and we rarely reach the goal without exerting every energy.

☞The man who doesn't turn up at Moses Weisel's Gents Furnishing Goods sale is very apt to be turned down by judges of elegant styles.

☞A cotemporary says that the man whose wife put his light overcoat carefully away in some unknown corner before she left for the country now wonders where he learned so many naughty words.

☞How are you off for Blankets. We have 'em, the best to be had from 50c the pair to $5. Moses Weisel.

☞For a homemade salt bath, put a couple of handfuls of common salt in a small bag, and shake it about in the bathtub of tepid water; it will dissolve at once. You will have prepared a bath which will equal any "sea-side" bathing.

☞A wise man doesn't like to admit that he has been foolish twice in the same way. If he forgets to buy his Neckties of Moses Weisel one day, he manages to drop into the store the next time he needs a supply.

C. M. Winder. J. S. Rogers, J. H. Sawyer, J. M. Hyatt, Jas Sylvester, S. S. Knowles, Robt. E. Black, W. C. Gregory, Mansfield Davis, J. R. Brite, J. H. Appelbaum, James C. Overman, W. J. Woodley, W. M. Price, T. W. Stewart, Jno. A. Taylor, Grandy Brite, W. G. Pool, W. T. Harris, Geo. Waters, Jno. Bundy, F. M. Dexter, W. N. Parker, J. F. Jones, H. C. Boyd, W. W. Woodley, W. M. Baxter, Levi E. Temple, S. S. Sawyer, W. H. Sutton, W. A. Williams, Alex. Armstrong, Jos. M. Haskett, G. F. Derickson, B. C. Jackson, Frank Albertson.

☞The madhouses are full of people who failed to control their tempers. Mathew Corvinue, King of Hungary, became so angry because his courtiers had eaten up some choice figs that he fell into convulsions and died. The Roman Emperor Nerva also died in a fit of anger.

LOCAL MENTION.

The sun rose this morning at 5:14 and will set to-night at 6:54.—Free advice is usually regretted.—Mrs. J. C. Sedgwick and Mrs. Geo. W. Lyon and children are off on a visit to Unionville, Pa.—The man who always does his duty is seldom out of a job.—Mrs. Helen S. Morrisette, of Norfolk, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Giddeon Lamb, on Burgess street.—Mr. J. H. Holland, of Franklin, Va., was in the city last week.—Cultivation to the mind is as necessary as food to the body.—Mrs. R. F. Overman is visiting friends at Henderson.—Some people are so proud that if fortune knocked at the gate they would send a servant to open it.—The Versifier thus speaks of Evolution:

Each time Dame Gossip tells her tale
And greater time elapses,
With care she trims it down and leaves
Out ifs, buts and perhapses.

—Many a man has lost the road trying to keep out of the ruts.—Mr. Maurice Wescott has returned from a visit to his venerable mother in Tyrrell.—Saith the "Fisherman and Farmer": "The Town Commissioners are having the streets nicely worked and the ditches and gutters placed in first-class order." They are.—The following cause for thanks is reported: "Oh, say, have you seen the new baby over the way? Its' a peach." "No; but I reckon they're mighty thankful it isn't a pair," was the reply.—Miss Mary Ziegler is off on a visit to relatives in Portsmouth, Va., and Baltimore, Md.—Speaking of a certain matter a Water street man said: "I'll stake my reputation on it." "You'll have nothing to lose," remarked a bystander.—No one has any right to do wrong.—Mrs. James R. Elliott, of Edenton, has been spending a week visiting Mrs. A. H. Mitchell on North Martin street.—"Don't you think the short stories in the magazines are getting poorer and poorer?" a certain young lady was asked. "I havn't noticed. I only take the magazines for the advertisements in the back," was the answers.—Writes the Jingler:

A man without a wife
Is a man down at the heel,
But the saddest thing in life
Is a man without a wheel.

—Our popular Register of Deeds and and long time Justice of the Peace, M. B. Culpepper, is the champion marriage ceremony performer in Eastern North Carolina, having already married upward of 500.—"What's the matter now?" asked a certain wife. "You are dreadfully cross-tempered this morning." "The razor is so abominably dull," said he. "Dull? Why, I ripped up an old skirt with it yesterday and it cut beautifully."—Mr. A. H. Mitchell, of the "Fisherman and Farmer," represented the Albemarle Fire Company at the Firemen's State Convention at Fayetteville last week.—The boy who always tells the truth will never get to be very mean.—On the 2d inst. Mr. Edward Simpson was married to Miss Maggie Anderson, both of this city. Justice Culpepper officiated.—The steamer Harring, of Plymouth, and tug McIntyre of Buffalo City, are at Willey's Ways for repairs.—Referring to the "Dissatisfied Man" we have the following:

"Man was made to mourn," they say;
He was also made to scold;
He finds it "too blamed hot to-day,"
"To-morrow "too darned cold."

—Mrs. P. S. Shipp and Mrs. W. J. Broughton are at the seaside.—The Telephone Company have declared a semi-annual divided of 8 per cent. They are about to double the capacity of the plant to meet the demand for 'phones.—"Say, what is moral courage anyway?" asked a weary down-town man the other day. "I heard a preacher say it was the power to say 'no'" replied his companion. "When you are ased to drink or work?" said the weary man.—Mrs. G. B. Ferrebee, of Norfolk, who has been visiting relatives here, returned home on Saturday.—Watermelons and canteloupes were never more plentiful, and, too, they are very cheap.—Lieutenant Ferebee has tendered his resignation as a member and 2nd lieutenant of the Naval Reserves.—Mrs. Luther Eborn and daughter, of Cresswell, are visiting friends in the city.—Remember:

Though memory recalls all things,
Our griefs and pleasures spent,
It never can bring back to us
The money we have spent.

—The services of the Methodist Episcopal Church which were formerly held in the Opera House, will be conducted in the future in the old Court room, upper floor of the Whedbee building, corner of Main and Road streets.—The contract for the brick for Dr. Lowry's large building on the corner of Main and Poindexter streets has been awarded to F. G. Thompson.—We acknowledge a very pleasant visit on Monday from Rev. B. H. Melton, the Evangelist who has been conducting the successful revival at the Court House.—The Butchers did not succeed in their "combine." The Commissioners are simply exercising their right and performing their duty in protecting the Corporation.—Mr. Hal. Vaughan, now of New York, is here on a visit to his parents He gave us a call.—Rev. and Mrs L. L. Williams, accompanied by Maj. and Mrs J. W. Greene, of Alexandria, Va., are at Nags Head.—Master Howard A. Willey has left on a trip to New York and Boston and to spend some time at Cape Ann, Mass., of which Whittier wrote:

Good-by to Pain and Care! I take
Mine ease to-day;
Here where these sunny waters break
And ripples this keen breeze, I shake
All burdens from the heart,
All weary thoughts away.

—Rev. W. Q. A. Graham, Pressding Elder of the Methodist Church, called the other day.—Oscar R. youngest son of Mr. and Mrs S. E. Long died on Sunday.—Owners of lots are reminded that they are required to cut down the weeds there on.—Rev. Dr. F. H. Johnston, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church, left yesterday on a visit to his mother and relatives in New Haven, Ct. This will be his first vacation since his location here.—Messrs G. W. Burnham, of South Mills, and J. E. Cartwright, of Vine, Va., called yesterday and paid their respects.—His Honor Mayor Pool continues quite feeble.

Judge Pool Dead.

Just as we go to press we learn that His Honor Charles C. Pool, Mayor, died this morning. He has long been in failing health. Fuller notice in our next issue.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express thanks to the Commissioners of Pasquotank county for the use of their beautiful Court House in which to conduct the revival which closed last Sunday night Such courtesy will ever be pleasantly remembered and we trust the house, use of which was so kindly offered, has served the purpose for which it was intended. Respectfully,

B. H. MELTON,
Evangelist.

The impressive funeral services, conducted by Revs. Anderson and Smith, took place on Monday at Mt. Lebanon Church of which the deceased was a consistent member. The remains were accompanied to the cemetery by Lily of the Valley Lodge No. 7, with which she was also connected.

Women in Politics.

Mrs. Noble Prentis has recently been appointed one of the executive committee of the Pingree commission in Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Clarinda M. Cope, Mrs. Winnie M. Crissey, Mrs. Sarah Crowley and F. H. Greene, all of Chicago, have been appointed deputy factory inspectors for Illinois by Governor Tanner.

She Is a Nightwatch.

Woman has been invading nearly every branch of employment once supposed to be the exclusive property of the stronger sex, and one of the latest ventures in this respect is that of Mrs. George Huber of New Brunswick, N. J. She has a position as nightwatch in the business district of that city, and has been as successful in the work since she took hold of it as any man might hope to be. She has a partner in her duties in the shape of an immense Great Dane hound, who accompanies her constantly during her hours of duty, and who would make things warm for anyone if his mistress gave the word.

The Flight of Time.

The flight of time was made apparent to many during the Queen's jubilee procession by the altered appearance of some of the royal and imperial ladies who figured in the cortege. Empress Frederick of Germany, the eldest daughter of the Queen, now herself the grandmother of a girl of marriageable age, Princess Feodore of Saxe-Meiningen, has snow white hair. So, too, has Princess Mary of Cambridge, Duchess of Teck, mother of the Duchess of York, and Princess Frederica of Hanover, and of Great Britain, who fifteen years ago was renowned throughout Europe for her superb beauty and her golden hair. She has the reputation of having received and declined more offers of marriage than any princess of the blood, finally conferring her hand upon her father's devoted and faithful aide-de-camp, Baron Pawel-Ramingen.

How to Pack Hats.

In order to secure their safety in traveling, hats must be packed with a great deal of care. If your trunk is lined with canvas, as most trunks are nowadays, the hats may be nicely secured with tapes and pins. The pieces of tape should be pinned to four sides of the hat in places where the pin holes will not show, and then stretch to the sides of the trunk, where they are pinned to the canvas. If there is no canvas lining, the tapes will have to be secured to the trunk with tacks, and a better substitute for the tapes would be a coarse white thread sewed through the hat and then wound around the tack heads. To remove the hat cut the threads and pull them out, after lifting it from the tray. One can pack several hats in a large handbox to send by express by sewing them to the sides of the box. The thread is sewed through the box and knotted on the outside. A little soft tissue paper should be used to support the trimmings and to fill the crown.

Dainty Lingerie.

Ribbons play an important part in dainty undergarments, and are run through or under insertions and tied in bows wherever possible. Fronts of Empire gowns are sometimes tucked down for three or four inches from the throat in very fine tucks, whence the fullness is unconfined, and below the tucks are crosswise bands of insertion put on straight or in Vandykes. The shoulder collars are usually pointed into revers in front, and run down both sides of the front, well over the bust and even to the waist line. The backs of the Empire gowns are laid in box plaits the depth of the yoke, and sometimes tucked to the waist. The embroideries used are of fine lace like patterns, and they are put on as gathered ruffles or frills, not in straight edgings.

The very daintiest corset covers are marvels of fine needlework, often being made entirely of rows of insertion between bands of linen cambric, nainsook or silk. Fine embroidered beading heads most ruffles, whether of lace or embroidery, and is used in almost all joinings, between bands of tucks and insertion, and on all edges; often all the seams of silk undergarments, room gowns and matinees are put together with it.—Demorest's Magazine.

Women's Colleges and Marriage.

A recent investigation shows that of 335 girl students who had obtained degrees from Girton college, England, 123 are teaching, two are missionaries, four are engaged in medical duties, six are dead, and the rest live at their own homes and are doing well, but are supported by their parents or husbands. It cannot be said that a higher education has helped them very materially in supporting themselves. Of the 79 Girton girls who had taken honors in mathematics, only six were married; of the 97 who had taken classical honors, ten have married, and of the 47 taking natural science honors seven are married. The same proportion was found at Newnham, another high-class female college, where only one in nine or ten girl students who took honors had married. On the other hand, those who contented themselves with a simple pass degree, furnished a much larger proportion of marriages. To put it mathematically, the chances of a girl marrying are reduced one-half by her passing through college, and four-fifths by taking a high degree. The record of the English women's colleges proves that they undoubtedly check matrimony. But this fact does not seem to affect in the slightest degree the desire of English girls for a higher education. They are as ambitious as ever for it, with or without husbands. We have not American records on the subject at hand; although it has been stated upon authority that the percentage of graduates of women's colleges in this country who marry is suggestively small, and that education of girls is as serious a check to matrimony here as it is in England.—Minneapolis Times.

Linen Traveling Frocks.

Two rather demure gowns were seen recently, one being linen, in plain and spotted, and the other a traveling gown of tailor cut, with gay revers and vest of bright tartan plaid, says the Philadelphia Times.

The linen gown was in navy blue and white, the plaid being clear blue and the dotted the same, with white spots the size of peas.

The skirt had the upper part of spotted linen, while the bottom was of plain navy blue, the spotted lying over it in large scallops bound with white.

The bodice was all of plain navy blue, excepting the sort of bertha, which was scalloped like the skirt and bound with white. The deep belt or corselet was of navy blue bound with white. A large scarf of white silk mull is worn about the throat and is tied in a huge bow under the chin.

The hat was of sunbonnet straw in a glossy rough braid, and is worn well off the face, with a chaplet of deep red and pink roses bordering the hair. The crown is trimmed with masses of white taffeta silk—not ribbon, but silk, and the bows set up very high over the brim in front. The tailor gown was of smooth, lightweight cloth in a clean tan color. It is lined throughout with plaid taffeta silk, and the lapels and waistcoat are of the same silk.

The bottom of the coat bodice was made in scallops, and it sets out jauntily at the back. The sleeves are exactly like the old time coat sleeves that we wore before large sleeves came into vogue, and they flare over the hands, showing the plaid facing.

Above the plaid waistcoat was a snowy linen dickie and front, with a little rim of collar standing out about the chin.

The hat is of fine orange straw trimmed with two flaring white wings and rosettes of cerise ribbon, a band of the same ribbon surrounding the brim.

The Typical American Girl.

As a type the American girl smiles at us from the canvas of a great artist, and there is a dash of coquetry in her sweet eyes and a suggestion of mysticism in her grave, parted lips. In song and verse she is celebrated, and she is the very breath of life to the modern novel, to the writer and illustrator alike. But in real life who among us has seen her? Where is she to be found? Not in the West. She is charming there, breezy, spirited, original, slangy, independent and delightfully unconventional; but provincial rather than national. You may look in vain for her among the fragile, Dresden china bas-bleus of New England, whose opinions and accent are equally chilling, and whose dainty eye glasses are never, by any chance, couleur de rose. South of the Mason and Dixon line there exist sweet voiced, sweet lipped women, always gracious, graceful and gentle, but, alas! never typical. Surely it will not be necessary to pursue the ignis fatuus beyond New York, for New York expects to be patted every time the American type is mentioned; but, strange to say, it is by a careful study of the youth and beauty of this cosmopolitan city that the truth is brought to light that there is no typical American girl.

We have, indeed, been lured to worship at a false shrine. There is the Gibson girl, who is rather the Southern type with an added hauteur and directness of style; the Smedley girl, who is a combination of New York and San Francisco; the Howells girl, who has the manners of Boston with the soul of Chicago; and the Henry James girl, whose manners and soul are devoid of any local color whatever; but even a composite girl of these four types would scarcely be sufficiently representative. It would be quite as sensible to insist that the daisy should grow like a rose, blossom like an orchid and carry the perfume of a violet, as to attempt to condense American girlhood, with its varying qualities of earnestness, vivacity, mirth, dignity, gentleness, independence and mental alertness, into one typical American girl.—Demorest's Magazine.

Fashion Notes.

Sailor collars of white linen are much worn on blouse bodices.

All smart white dresses are trimmed with insertion of yellow embroidery or lace.

Plaid blouses are dividing the honors with clear scarlet and checks of black and white.

Elaborateness is being displayed in the make up of sleeves. Many of them are composed almost entirely of lace and insertion; others are tucked round and round and others are covered with rows of trimming.

One of the handsomest waists of the season is made of white China crepe. It has vest, collar and cuffs of white satin ribbon. It is worn with a skirt of black satin made plainly, save for three bias ruffles at the hem.

Short boleros and Etons made of cut work and embroidery, lined with thin tinted silk of some becoming color, are considered very smart with any sort of light summer gown. They give a pretty finish that is both chic and dainty.

Dresses of muslin, organdie and batiste have the ruffles edged with narrow lace. There may be but one or several ruffles on the skirts and they are set either in clusters at the foot or at regular intervals, covering about half the length of the skirt.

It seems to make less difference this year what you wear than how you wear it. Dresses need not be at all expensive, in fact, some of the six-cent lawns and dimities make as pretty and stylish dresses as one could wish for. It is the way they are made and the fashion of wearing them.

A handsome imported jacket is made of box cloth, showing a white sailor collar and revers. The model is open fronted and extremely short. The jacket is a pale shade of cream, and is called the Redfern beach jacket, and other models are in pale green, mauve, tan, sage gray, silver gray, and also deep currant red.

Batiste laces wrought on a delicate net ground, are much used to trim ecru lawns, linen batistes and similar transparent fabrics. With these toilets, late in the afternoon at the summer resorts, are worn very pretty ruches of chiffon or batiste, finished with long scarf ends of the same, bordered with batiste lace insertion bands.

"MESA ENCANTADA."

Fascinating Traditions of the Lofty Cliff Which Prof. Libby Is to Try to Scale.

The scheme of Prof. Libby of Princeton university to scale the rock 700 feet high in the Acoma territory in New Mexico, has already been brought to the notice of the Pathfinder readers. In connection with this coming expedition, which is now en route it is interesting to know something about the marvelous history—more properly, tradition—of this "enchanted" rock. "Mesa Encantada" is rightly named if the romances and tradition connected with it be true, as in part they they must be.

Near the centre of the plains of Acoma—a vast expanse of wild prairie land situated west by south of Albuquerque, N. M., some seventy-five miles, rises a rectangular rock of red and gray sand stone, shaped like the figure 8, with perpendicular sides 700 feet high. This rock is called "Mesa Encantada" —enchanted mesa. The top of this elevated table land covers an area of about forty acres. From the top project, horizontally, great craggy points of rock which make the summit wholly inaccessible. Yet on this very top, on that stony tableland 700 feet above their fellow-men, lived at one time a colony of men, women and children. Way back in the sixteenth century 1500 village-Indians—so the story goes—built their rude but frugal homes of stone and sun-dried bricks up there and lived safer from in'rusion than if they were in a walled fortress. But how did they get there? How, indeed did the primitive Indians reach the top of "Mesa Encantada"—a feat that great modern scientists are working hard to accomplish?

Besides, these people did not only scale it once. For what could they live on up there? They had gardens of corn, chili and beans away down in the valley far beneath, their cattle grazed at the great rock's foot. Ascent and descent had to be made every day, and made it was. And this is how it was as wonderful as some ancient fairy tale. On the east side of the great rock mountain they had cut in the stone for about 300 feet up, narrow steps. Where the steps stopped was a landing, and a great arch, even like a cathedral entrance. Lo, behold (as the fairy tale would put it) the great arch led into the very depths of the rock itself, whence another and another flight of steps hewn out from the rock, led up and up to the very top—the plateau itself. By this laborious, hidden path, the Æsopian ascent, those ingenious and industrious people overcame the difficulty of the projecting crags.

But safe as these red folks thought they were up there, one day—as the story goes—a horrible thing occurred, and "Mesa Encantada" freed herself from her burden of humans for ever—unless to be sure Prof. Libby conquers here once again.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Reckless youth makes rueful age.—Moore.

Cultivation to the mind is as necessary as food to the body.—Cicero.

The earnestness of life is the only passport to the satisfaction of life.—Theodore Parker.

I hate to see things done by halves. If it be right, do it boldly—if it be wrong, leave it undone.—Gilpin.

To persist in doing wrong extenuates not the wrong, but makes it much more heavy.—Shakespeare.

There is nothing more universally commended than a fine day; the reason is people can commend it without envy.—Shenstone.

Inquisitive people are the funnels of conversation; they do not take anything for their own use, but merely to pass it on to others.—Steele.

To take for granted as truth all that is alleged against the fame of others, is a species of credulity that men would blush at on any other subject.—Jane Porter.

Set it down as a fact to which there are no exceptions, that we must labor for all that we have, and that nothing is worth possessing, or offering to others, which costs us nothing.—John Todd.

Intoxicating drinks have produced evils more deadly, because more continuous, than all those caused to mankind by the great historic scourges of war, famine and pestilence combined.—Gladstone.

Let no man be sorry that he has done good, because others have done evil. If a man has acted right, he has done well, though alone; if wrong the sanction of all mankind will not justify him.—Fielding.

The greatest and noblest work in the world and an effect of the greatest prudence and cure, is to rear and build up a man and to form and fashion him to piety, justice, temperance and all kinds of honest and worthy actions.—Tillotson.

A Kansas Town.

Chiefly by its newness and of a certain cosmopolitan aspect, says William Allen White in the Atlantic, the Kansas town differs from villages elsewhere in the United States, and presents a few interesting variations from the common type. The largest town in the commonwealth has hardly forty thousand inhabitants. Most of the county-seats in the eastern half of the state, where the rainfall is copious, and where crops are bountiful and regular, contain about three thousand persons each. The county-seat is in the strictest sense a country town. The inhabitants live almost entirely upon the tributary country. There are no factories. The money that the farmers of the county spend for food, clothing, fuel, and the comforts of the farm home is the cash capital upon which the town does its business. This capital is passed from the grocers to the clothing merchants, to the furniture dealers, to the hardware sellers, and to professional men. In the older communities of the Eastern and Middle states, necessity has developed factories, which convert raw material into finished products, and money from the outside world comes in. But Kansas is yet hardly a generation old, and it has not entered the manufacturing era of industry.

An Interrupted Reverie.

She was standing alone on the beach, gazing pensively on the ocean.

A youth approached—then paused.

"No," he murmured, I will not disturb the current of her thoughts. She is communing with the gods!"

Then she saw him and, turning toward him, said:

"I say, mister! How fur does this here millpond go, and whar'bouts does it stop at?"—Atlanta Constitution.

M'KINLEY VISITS VERMONT.

Crack Cavalry Troops at Fort Ethan Allen Give a Parade.

President and Mrs. McKinley, Vice-President and Mrs. Hobart, Secretary and Mrs. Alger, Secretary and Mrs. Porter, Miss Frances Alger, "Fred" Alger, Mrs. Bailey, Secretary Alger's daughter; Charles B. Pike, Miss Alger's fiance, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Flagg comprised the Presidential party, which left the Hotel Champlain, Bluff Point, N. Y., on the steamer Maquam for Burlington, Vt.

The party was met by Troop E, of the Fifth Cavalry, under Captain Dodd. The troop escorted the party to the residence of Colonel Le Grand B. Cannon. When passing in front of the armory of Company M, V. S. N. G., a Presidential salute was fired, and the President acknowledged it. The first gun was fired at Fort Ethan Allen at twenty-five minutes to 4 p. m., announcing the arrival of the Commander-in-Chief. The President and Secretary went to the reviewing stand, and the four troops of cavalry were drawn up in squadron front on the parade ground. Lieutenant Tate and the colored guard went to the commanding officer's quarters, where they received the colors of the regiment, Mrs. Bailey presenting them. The cavalry then gave an exhaustive drill. Captain Dodd's Royal Riders, Troop F, gave an exhibition of daring work.

The party returned to Burlington on the steamer Vermont, being escorted to the boat by Troops F and D. In addition to the Presidential party, the guests at luncheon at Colonel Cannon's home were Governor Grout, Edward J. Phelps, Mayor H. S. Reck, General T. S. Reck, former Collector Smalley and C. Kennedy. Burlington was plentifully decorated for the occasion.

FOR FARMS IN ALASKA.

Secretary Wilson on the Possible Yukon Agriculture.

Secretary Wilson, of the Agricultural Department, has been in Chicago conferring with a number of people interested in Alaska. He said:

"I am greatly interested in the development of Alaska. With the aid of three experienced men, who are now in the Yukon country, the Department of Agriculture is making extensive investigations with a view of learning the value of the agricultural resources of the principal valleys, and it is certain an experimental farm will be established within a year near the junction of the Yukon and Tanana Rivers, or in some other favorable location."

He pledged himself to work for the project, and he said Congress would appropriate at least $15,000 for the purpose, and there seemed to be no obstacle to the trial for the experiment next spring.

Secretary Wilson favors the plan of sending a colony of practical farmers to the Yukon Valley as soon as possible to establish farms and supply the miners with grain, meats and vegetables.

500 PERSONS KILLED.

Towns Destroyed in the Eruption of the Volcano Mayon.

Five hundred reported killed up to July 1 is the record of the terrible outbreak of the great volcano of Mayon, on the island of Luzon, one of the Philippine group.

On the night of June 24 this volcano began throwing up ashes and lava in immense quantities. Flames shot over 100 feet above the crater.

The next day fifty-six bodies were recovered at a considerable distance from the volcano, and the most recent despatches to Hong Kong up to July 8 say that not less than 500 were known to be killed.

It is possible, say the despatches, that the loss of life will reach into the thousands. On July 8 lava streams and ashes reached the cities of Bacaca, Malipol and Libob, and their destruction was certain.

Fifteen smaller towns between these and the volcano had been destroyed, and scores of the agricultural population had been overwhelmed while attempting to escape.

FOUR GIRLS DROWNED.

They Were Members of a Camping Party and Sank Out of Sight While Wading.

Two women and two little girls, daughters of prominent Keokuk (Iowa) people, were drowned in the Skunk River, near Pack Wood. Three of them were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Pample and the other a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Adams, of Ioka. Two of the Pamples were young women and the other thirteen years old. Bessie Adams, the other victim, was eight years old.

They were members of a large camping party which had been outing on the banks of the Skunk River for several days. The four girls went in wading at a place which appeared to be shallow. The other women of the party, who were sitting on the bank, saw all four disappear suddenly, and by the time the men had been summoned they had sunk for the last time. The four bodies were recovered and the funeral was held at Rock Creek.

Killed a Boy in Church.

At a colored church, four miles west of Sylacauga, Ala., a thirteen-year-old colored boy was murdered. John Graham, a colored man, returned to the neighborhood after an absence of two years, much changed in appearance. During services in the church the boy whispered to Graham: "You have been away so long that you look like a toad frog." Graham drew a pistol and fired at the boy, killing him instantly.

Wheat Still Advancing.

September wheat made a new record on the New York Produce Exchange, reaching eighty-six cents. The continued rise is due to the conviction that the United States must feed many millions in other countries. Corn was lower on better crop prospects.

Naval Fete at Newport.

Twenty thousand visitors saw the naval fete at Newport, R. I. In the afternoon there was a parade of sailors and marines. In the evening beautifully illuminated boats wound around Goat Island amid the barking of cannon and the detonation of bombs.

Senator Gorman May Retire.

It is said on high authority that United States Senator Gorman, of Maryland, will in a short time announce that he will not be a candidate for re-election, and that at the conclusion of his term he will retire from politics.

A Fierce Onslaught.

There are eighteen thousand applications on file for the seventy-five positions at the disposal of Congressional Librarian Young.

No Postal Competition.

The Federal Government will not permit competition with its postal business. The Western Union Telegraph Company recently established in Buffalo, N. Y., a local letter delivery at one cent for each letter. This meant a saving of one cent to the customers. The company received a peremptory order from Washington to abandon that line of business.

New Coating For War Ships.

The Navy Department will investigate the product of the Utah mineral lands with reference to a new coating for the bottom of war ships.

Cycling Notes.

A school to train bicycle riders is soon to be started in France.

Dr. Chauncey M. Depew is learning to ride the bicycle. He is receiving instructions at Newport, R. I.

Around Copenhagen, Denmark, all cyclists are obliged, under penalty of a fine, it is said, to walk their bicycles down hill, no matter how small the incline.

A long period of dryness is harmful to rubber, therefore tires should not be stored in hot, dry places. The dryness acts as harmfully on rubber as damp does on steel. A good wipe over with a wet cloth is an excellent thing for the tires after every ride.

C. Edward Lyon, Teller of the Savings Bank of Danbury, Conn., met death while riding on a tandem wheel. He was attempting to pass a team when the horses became frightened and trampled upon him, causing his death.

Never mount a hill or continue level road riding when you feel it a strain. This causes irregularity of the heart's action and may be otherwise injurious. You will derive benefit from cycling so long as you keep within your natural physical capabilities.

It is customary for the advocates of the brake to base their arguments in favor of its use largely upon the dangers of country riding without it as a safeguard, but there is just as much reason for its use in the crowded city streets as in the less frequented rural highways.

CHIEF PARKER KILLED.

The Well-Known Chief of the Comanches Murdered For His Money.

News has been received from Altul, in the extreme southwestern portion of Oklahoma, that outlaws have killed Quanah Parker, chief of the Comanche Indians, and one of the most noted Indians in the Territory. Chief Parker was returning from Texas with 300 of his tribe, and they were camped at the mouth of North Fork Creek, Grier County. He was killed and robbed of his money.

Chief Parker was accompanied by his favorite wife and a party of his sub-chiefs. He was one of the remarkable men of the Southwest. His mother was a white woman, Cynthia Ann Parker, captured in childhood by the Indians, and when grown she was married to old Chief Quana, chief of the Comanches in their bloodiest days. Their son, Quanah Parker had a university education, but preferred Indian life, and dressed in Indian costume. He has presided over the tribe for years, living in a large mansion, with seven wives and many children.

A Chain of Tragedies.

At Crooksville, Ohio, a few days ago, J. J. McFarland dropped dead on the street from apoplexy. While C. W. Watts, undertaker, and David Miller, barber, were preparing the corpse for burial lightning struck the house and killed Miller and Ralph McFarland, the nine-year-old son of Mr. McFarland, and seriously injured Undertaker Watts.

The Internal Revenue Showing.

According to the figures of the Internal Revenue Bureau of the Treasury, there has been a very considerable falling off in the per-capita consumption of alcoholic liquor in this country.

Failure in Truck Farming.

The present year in Georgia promises to be a very unsatisfactory one for truck farmers. From all parts of the State reports say that the crops are short and that the prices have not been as high as might have been expected under this shortage. In Savannah, where the truck season is about ended, the farmers, with rare exceptions, have been losers, and it is estimated that the yield has been forty per cent. less than that in a good year.

Washing a Fine Art.

Ever since spinning was a type of womanly industry, from age to age it has been expected that beautiful apparel should clothe women. To keep dainty belongings in good order it is necessary to have them properly laundered. This is especially true in the laundering of pretty summer gowns, which is now quite a fine art. To do the work properly, fill a tub two-thirds full of warm water, dissolve the fourth of a cake of Ivory Soap (which will not fade the most delicate colors), add it to the water; wash the articles through it, rinse first in clear and then in blue water; wring, dip in thin starch, shake out and hang on the line in the shade. When dry, sprinkle and iron. Gowns thus laundered will retain their freshness the entire season.

ELIZA R. PARKER.

A People With No Government.

The English explorer, Harry de Windt, recently returned to London from the Siberian shores of Bering strait. In a short time he will leave England for a lecturing tour in the United States. The Tchuktchis are nominally Russian subjects, but the only vessels ever in the neighborhood are American whalers and the United States revenue cutter. Mr. de Windt had an enforced sojourn of two months among the natives.

He says they are physically a far finer race than the Alaskan Esquimaux, and their women are better looking, but the Tchuktchis are wholly devoid of morality, and will barter a wife for a handful of tobacco. They number altogether about 5000 and along Bering strait are seven settlements of perhaps 300 each. The others are scattered along the seaboard of the Arctic ocean, stretching away to the settlement of Nijni Kolymsk.

The most weird Tchuktchi ceremony is the "Kamitsk." This is simply the putting to death, with their free consent, of aged or useless members of the community. When a Tchuktchi's powers have decreased to an appreciable extent a family council is held and a day fixed for the victim's departure for another world. Perhaps the most curious feature is the indifference shown by the doomed one, who takes a lively interest in the proceedings, and often assists in the preparations for his own death. The execution is preceded by a feast, where seal and walrus meat are greedily devoured and villainous whiskey is consumed.—New York Journal.

The Lovable Javanese People.

"Down in Java" is the title of an article in the Century, written by Eliza R. Scidmore. The author says:

Native life swarms in this land of the betel and the banana, where there seems to be more of inherent dream and calm than in other lands of the lotus. The Javanese are the finest flowers of the Malay race—a people possessed of a civilization, arts, and literature in that golden period before the Mohammedan and the European conquests. They have gentle voices, gentle manners, fine and expressive features, and are the one people of Asia besides the Japanese who have real charm and attraction for the alien. They are more winning, too, by contrast, after one has met the harsh, unlovely, and unwashed people of China, or the equally unwashed, cringing Hindu. They are a little people, and one feels the same indulgent, protective sense as toward the Japanese. Their language is soft and musical—"the Italian of the tropics;" their ideas are poetic, and their love of flowers and perfumes, of music and the dance, of heroic plays and of every emotional form of art, proves them as innately esthetic as their distant cousins, the Japanese, in whom there is so large an admixture of Malay stock. Their reverence for rank and age, and their elaborate etiquette and punctilious courtesy to one another, are as marked in the common people as among the Japanese; but their abject crouching humility before their Dutch employers, and the brutality of the latter to them, are subjects for sadder thinking, and something to make the blood boil.

Durability of the Yellow Alaska Cedar.

The durability of this timber is forcibly illustrated by fallen trunks that are perfectly sound after lying in the damp woods for centuries. Soon after these trees fall they are overgrown with moss, in which seeds lodge and germinate and grow up into vigorous saplings, which stand in a row on the backs of their dead ancestors. Of this company of young trees perhaps three or four will grow to full stature, sending down straddling roots on each side, and establishing themselves in the soil; and after they have reached an age of two or three hundred years, the downtrodden trunk on which they are standing, when cut into, is found as fresh in the heart as when it fell.—Century.

Salutations in Sumatra.

The salutations of different countries are of interest, from the stately bow of the Oriental to the rubbing of noses of the Polynesians. The Chinese settlers in the island of Sumatra have a strange and ludicrous form of salutation. When they meet each other, say, after an absence of a month or longer, they do not shake each other's hand. They grin broadly, and each grasps his own hand, shaking it vigorously for a few moments.

Antimony is found in many countries. It is exported to this country and England from France, Spain and Holland.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

A New Jersey Woman Expresses Her Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham for Relief.

"Will you kindly allow me," writes Miss Mary E. Saidt to Mrs. Pinkham, "the pleasure of expressing my gratitude for the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking your Compound? I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration and general debility, caused by falling of the womb. It seemed as though my back would never stop aching. I could not sleep. I had dull headaches. I was weary all the time, and life was a burden to me. I sought the seashore for relief, but all in vain. On my return I resolved to give your medicine a trial. I took two bottles and was cured. I can cheerfully state, if more ladies would only give your medicine a fair trial they would bless the day they saw the advertisement, and there would be happier homes. I mean to do all I can for you in the future. I have you alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am very grateful."—Miss MARY E. SAIDT, Jobstown, N. J.

Precipices in the Himalayas.

There is one remarkable peculiarity of the series of Himalayan ranges between the vale and Kasmir and the central Asian watershed—they are one after another cut right across by ridges. The reason for this is that the rivers were there before the ranges were formed, and as, by the crinkling of the earth's crust, the ranges were raised, the rivers cut gorges through them and maintained their flow.

Nanga Parbat is part of the true and principal Himalayan range, and its summit rises to the stupendous altitude above sea level of 26,630 feet. Close to its foot, not more than ten miles in horizontal distance from the peak, the Indus flows through a desert gorge, and here the height above sea level of the river bed is not much above 3000 feet.

It is easy to conceive from these figures on how vast a scale nature's architecture is set up. I have never been down this part of the Indus gorge, but a friend of mine who was there told me that the path along the side of the gorge is in places perilously narrow and carried across precipices of such appalling character that at one point a servant of his who lost his footing fell a mile in vertical height, and was, of course, smashed to atoms.

One side of Nanga Parbat sinks to this gorge by a series of ridges and ravines—that is the Chilas side. The other two sides of the mountain, for it is on a triangular base, are likewise defined by long valleys, one of which is filled by the great Tarshing glacier.—North American Review.
